“As we serve others, we are working on ourselves; every act, every word, every gesture of genuine compassion naturally nourishes our own hearts as well. It is not a question of who is healed first. When we attend to ourselves with compassion and mercy, more healing is made available for others. And when we serve others with an open and generous heart, great healing comes to us.” – Wayne Muller

The Community College Advantage

By: Dr. Khristy Large, PhD

Community colleges are a hidden gem. Whether you are a current high schooler, recent high school graduate or even an adult considering going back to school, there are plenty of reasons to consider a community college. Here in West Alabama, we are fortunate to have an HBCU designated community college, Shelton State.

There are many advantages to attending a community college. Attending a community college is not only more affordable but it is also less expensive. Those who choose to attend a community college can save 50% or more on tuition. Not only are the class sizes smaller, but they offer a supportive environment, and more flexibility. Whether you work full-time or have family obligations, a community college will allow you the flexibility to earn a degree or certificate for entering the workforce or if you would like to transfer your earned credits to a senior 4-year institution. Classes are offered in the evenings, online, and face-to-face.

It is only a myth that online courses are designed for seasoned students. At Shelton, we offer the first and only online associate in applied science degree designed for students who would like to pursue a career in either bookkeeping/accounting, information processing, medical records, or paralegal. Graduates of our program are employed with University of Alabama, Alabama Power, Veterans Affairs, several local school systems, law offices as well as other Fortune 500 companies. If you are a high school student, you can even start our program for FREE while in high school through participating in dual enrollment. You can earn a college credential Business Office Management and Technology as well as your high school diploma all within the same school year.

If any assistance is needed to get you started so you can make your “Shelton Statement,” please feel free to contact me at klarge@sheltonstate.edu.
